Craig Arnold
GUEST CONDUCTOR

Craig Arnold has conducted works large and small in most of the United States, frequently at Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center, Orchestra Hall in Chicago, and other major venues throughout the world. He has had an extensive career as conductor of choirs and orchestras of all ages; educator of graduate, undergraduate, high school, and middle school students; guest lecturer for teacher and conductor training; and guest conductor of workshops, festivals, and all state choirs across the country. He is currently the Artistic Director of Manhattan Chorale and Chamber Orchestra.

Passionate about choral and educational opportunities of excellence, Dr. Arnold more recently founded CODA Concerts and an online learning center called Forward Motion. These ventures augment the performance experiences offered internationally through sister-company Manhattan Concert Productions, a New York City-based production company he founded in 1999.
